

Corporate Resilience and Response to COVID-19

Not cheap talk. Companies' responses to ESG issues related to key stakeholders were systematically linked to stock performance during the COVID-19 market crash.

By Alex Cheema-Fox, Bridget R. LaPerla, George Serafeim, and Hui (Stacie) Wang.

Click here to access the full paper on the Journal of Applied Corporate Finance website.

Disclaimer:

We do not store a copy of this academic paper on Insights. To access the paper, please follow the link above to view the abstract or (where available) download the paper.

Please note that when you click on one of these Linked Sites, you are connecting or accessing another provider's website. We have no control over and are not responsible for the content, proper operation, quality, suitability or accuracy of any of these Linked Sites or their content. The fact that we have provided a link to a third party's website does not constitute an implicit or explicit endorsement, authorization, sponsorship of or affiliation with such website. You use content from Linked Sites at your own risk, and you agree that we will not be liable for any damage or loss that you may suffer by using third-party websites or content provided through Linked Sites. Review the privacy statements and terms of use of any website you visit before you provide any personal or confidential information or conduct a transaction and again at each subsequent visit as their statements and use terms may differ from our policies.